

FootballersCV Launches Professional Football CV Platform Connecting Players With Scouts, Agents, and Clubs Worldwide

FootballersCV is a SaaS platform that helps aspiring footballers create professional player profiles designed for modern scouting and recruitment.

FootballersCV has officially launched a new football recruitment platform designed to help aspiring footballers present themselves professionally to scouts, agents, and clubs worldwide.

The SaaS-based platform enables players to create structured digital football CVs that showcase key information such as playing position, career statistics, achievements, highlight videos, GPS performance data, and personal profile details in one centralized location. Rather than sending multiple links, lengthy messages, or incomplete information, players can share a single professional profile link designed to communicate their experience and abilities clearly.

As the number of players seeking football opportunities continues to grow globally, scouts, agents, and clubs are increasingly required to review large volumes of player profiles within limited timeframes. FootballersCV was developed to address this challenge by making player information easier to scan, compare, and evaluate efficiently.

Each player profile is structured to display the most important recruitment information upfront, helping football professionals assess players more quickly. The platform also includes a Scout Overview feature that provides a concise breakdown of a player's profile, including key statistics, attributes, and playing style summaries intended to help scouts understand a player within seconds.

About

A lifelong footballer since age six, this versatile player initially excelled as a forward and attacking midfielder, consistently driving play forward. Since transitioning to center defense in January 2026, they have rapidly demonstrated exceptional aptitude and earned outstanding feedback for their defensive prowess.

“Scouts are reviewing more players than ever, but with less time per profile,” a spokesperson for FootballersCV said. “We built FootballersCV to make talent easier to understand, not just easier to find.”

According to the company, many aspiring footballers struggle to present themselves professionally when contacting clubs or agents. Players often rely on scattered social media links, long direct messages, or incomplete highlight packages that make it difficult for recruiters to evaluate them effectively. FootballersCV aims to simplify that process by offering players a clean, professional, and standardized presentation format.

In addition to its football CV builder, the platform includes a searchable player directory that allows scouts, clubs, coaches, and agents to discover players based on position, nationality, location, age, and other key attributes. The platform’s search system is designed to improve visibility for players who may otherwise go unnoticed due to poor presentation or limited exposure.

FootballersCV also offers several additional tools intended to support modern football recruitment and player outreach. Features available on the platform include highlight video integration, player statistics, GPS data uploads, coach references, AI-generated cover letters, and AI-powered message assistance designed to help players communicate more professionally with scouts and clubs.

For football professionals, the platform provides recruitment-focused features such as advanced search filters, recruitment pipeline organization, player comparison tools, direct messaging functionality, and profile verification systems. Clubs, scouts, and agents can use the platform to search for talent, shortlist prospects, and manage recruitment activity from a centralized dashboard.

The company states that the platform has already attracted more than 200 players building professional profiles, along with early engagement from scouts and industry professionals across more than 20 countries. FootballersCV currently reports over 1,654 profile views on the platform.

FootballersCV is designed for aspiring and semi-professional players actively seeking trials, exposure opportunities, academy pathways, or professional football opportunities. The company says the platform is suitable for players at multiple levels of the game, including academy prospects, released players, grassroots footballers, semi-professionals, and athletes pursuing opportunities internationally.

The platform also features an Opportunity Marketplace where players can browse football trials, showcases, academy programs, and recruitment opportunities listed by third parties and football organizations. Current listings include first-team trials, talent identification showcases, and international academy scouting opportunities.

FootballersCV operates on a freemium model that allows players to create basic football profiles at no cost, while premium verification plans provide additional visibility benefits, profile verification, priority search placement, and enhanced communication features. Clubs, scouts, coaches, and agents can access the platform free of charge.

The company says its long-term objective is to become a centralized football recruitment hub where players, scouts, clubs, and agents can connect more efficiently through structured and accessible player data.

“Football recruitment continues to evolve digitally, and presentation now plays a major role in how players are evaluated,” the spokesperson added. “Our goal is to help talented players present themselves professionally while making the discovery process faster and more effective for scouts and clubs.”
